SEEK GOD, HE URGES

THIS THE NOBLEST QUEST, PRATHER TELLS GRADUATES.

MUCH NOT YET FOUND

First Methodist Church Is Filled as Sermon Is Delivered to High School Class.

There are lands yet to be discovered, victories yet to be won, and truth yet to be unfolded, the Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the First Baptist Church told the fifty-one members of the spring graduating class of the Maryville high school last night.

There is still need of the open mind, honesty of search, willingness to be corrected, and guidance lest we stray in our search, the speaker added.

The class sermon was delivered at the First M. E. Church. Every seat in the church was filled, and extra chairs were set up to accomodate the relatives and friends of the graduates.

The Reverend Mr. Prather took as his subject "The Noblest Quest," and his text from Matthew 7:7. The word "seek," he pointed out, is often used in the Bible: "Seek the Lord." "Seek first the Kingdom," "Seek the things above."

"It strikes a responsive cord in every heart," he declared. "The heart is ever restless, ever seeking."

Many Kinds of Truth

There are limitless fields of investigation, said Mr. Prather, and many kinds of truth. He referred to "mathematical truth that can be proven with precision; biological truth in the realm of living things, subject to variations, and often elusive; historical truth, based upon the testimony of credible witnesses, never absolute, but rendered more and more probable, and sufficient to establish certainty of belief; and aesthetic truth which is apprehended only by appreciative minds and sensitive hearts, as a beautiful painting, a glowing sunset, a mother's heart."

"Belief, the minister cautioned, "does not make the truth. There must be continued testing and proving. Belief must be based on intelligent inquiry. "Real faith is in harmony with an honest quest, and need never be afraid to seek and find and follow the truth. Belief largely moulds the life. Hence an active, open mind will gradually dispel error and arrive at more of the truth."

The graduates were told that each must learn and search for himself, and should be free to do so.

God the Noblest Quest.

Here the Reverend Mr. Prather arrived at the central point of his theme —that the noblest quest is God.

"Progress in religious knowledge," he said, "comes largely like other knowledge, by patient study. There can be little inspiration or revelation to a lazy man, but abundance to the seeking heart. The inspired Bible writers were also inspired to live and toil and die in the search for the truth and in the defense and growth of the truth.

"There is no more attractive or profitable search than the Bible and its relations.

"Men have always searched for God. The great world religions represent to us this search. They combine much of superstition, and error, and truth. Our Christian Bible and our organized Christianity is on one side God's revelation of himself to man. But on another side, it represents to us the search of earnest hearts after God."

Discussing tests which may be applied to the world's religions, the Reverend Mr. Prather pointed out that the Christian nations lead the world in material things, in world power and influence, in learning, in morals and in individual worth—recognizing the rights of the child, the elevation of Father Felix is to become director of Conception College.

CAPE WINS IN DEBATE HERE

WARRENSBURG PAIR DEFEATED ON NEUTRAL GROUND.

LOCAL TEAMS AWAY

Maryville Arguers Go to Warrensburg and Cape Girardeau, While Those Schools Meet Here.

While the two debating teams of the State Teachers College here were contesting in foreign territory, forensic representatives of Warrensburg and Cape Girardeau, sister colleges of the Maryville institution, met in the auditorium of the College here this morning during the assembly period and argued the question, "Resolved, that the United States should cease to protect by armed force capital invested in foreign lands, except after war has been declared."

Cape Girardeau, upholding the affirmative side of the question, was given the decision by five judges picked from the local College faculty. The votes were not announced but it was said the decision was not unanimous.

To most listeners, the Cape team excelled in practically all phases of delivery and thought, presented in well-knit form a plea of a definite stand by the United States in place of the "unsatisfactory" policy of the United States at the present time. The affirmative also declared that the United States should place herself on a plane with European powers in regard to the provisions of the Monroe Doctrine and, with this, urged a general strengthening of this doctrine.

The negative maintained that in order to continue upholding the Monroe doctrine the United States must protect British capital invested in foreign lands, as has been demanded, or allow them to defend it with intervention themselves.

Prolonged constructive arguments entirely eliminated the negative rebuttal and crippled this team in this phase of the conflict. One affirmative refutation was allowed.

The affirmative team was represented by Miss Doris Mabrey and Hunter McKay. The negative was represented by H. H. Edwards and Wallace Cooper.

Miss Blanche Dow, Miss Frances Bogle, Henry A. Foster, T. H. Cook and M. W. Wilson, of the College faculty, were the judges.

The two teams were entertained at dinner at the College cafeteria.

Maryville teams debated Springfield at Warrensburg and Kirksville at Cape Girardeau, at the same time this morning but no results had been received this afternoon.

Gerald Carroll and Fred Smith composed the team at Warrensburg and Clyde Rowland and Leland Medsker the Maryville contingent at Cape Girardeau.

The debates today were the last of a series of debates in which the five teachers' college of Missouri have been contesting for the Guy Allison debate cup. All the State Teachers Colleges of Missouri sent out two teams for debates, and as this was the last of a series of debates covering four years, the final winners will be chosen. The Cape Girardeau college is leading, having had during the past three years, five decisions out of six. Should it win both the debates this year, it will have the permanent possession of the cup.

Bower Aly and Miss Martha Welman accompanied the Cape Girardeau debaters here. Another Cape team debated today with Kirksville at Springfield.

Circuit Court Here Adjourned to May 26

Circuit court was adjourned Saturday afternoon until May 26 by Judge John M. Dawson. No orders were made by the court Saturday afternoon. Hopkins bank cases probably will be up for final settlement on May 26.

Motor to Des Moines.

Hugh and James Armstrong and Miss Florence Shrubshall motored to Des Moines, Ia., where they spent Sunday with Mrs. J. A. Dillinger and family of that city.

MAN DIES AT FIRE STATION

UNIDENTIFIED ITINERANT A VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA.

GIVES A FRENCH NAME

Found at Wabash Depot in Early Morning, He Fails to Tell of Relatives.

A man, name and address unknown, died in Maryville Saturday afternoon after resting in the police station, in the fire station, since early in the morning.

Will Trullinger, night policeman, found the sick man at the Wabash depot early Saturday morning. The stranger said he was on his way to relatives in Iowa, and Officer Trullinger bought a ticket for him and put him on the train. Returning to the business section, the officer received a call a few minutes later, saying that the man had left the train. He was taken then to the fire station, where he remained until he died, about 4 p. m.

Efforts were made constantly to find some means of identification, but the man, either unable or unwilling to speak distinctly, did not make his name plain. Chief B. F. Dougan said that as nearly as he could understand the name given, obviously French, was Louis Lafonte. Another name heard by Mayor W. O. Garrett, who was called to the scene early in the day, and other witnesses, was Lou Blanchall of Corning, Ia. Sheriff L. B. Campbell called the sheriff of Adams county by phone but was not enlightened, authorities there not being able to find anyone by that or a similar name. Blanchall was spelled only by the sound as the dying man gave it.

No Papers on Body.

No papers of any kind were found on the man, although he carried various other articles, described as "junk." In his pockets was $6 to $7. His clothes were those of an itinerant and presumably he was wearing everything that he had, because he had on two or three suits of underwear.

According to actual measurements made at the Price funeral parlor, where he was taken, the dead man was slightly less than 5 feet 6 inches in height. It is doubtful if he weighed more than seventy-five pounds, as he was exceedingly thin, seemingly only skin and bones. Having gray hair and beard, he looked to be over 70 years of age, but J. P. Price estimated that he was younger, the appearance of advanced age, perhaps due to the life he had led.

The face, small and thin, was rather long and narrow. He had the appearance of a typical Frenchman.

Mayor Garrett stated that preparations were being made to remove the man to the St. Francis hospital, but death intervened.

Put Off by Conductor.

Officer Trullinger bought the man a ticket to Burlington Junction so he could make connections for Corning, Ia. The conductor on the train leaving here at 6 o'clock put him off before the train left, saying the man was too ill to make the journey.

Dr. Frank Wallis, who was called by city officers, said today that acute pneumonia was the cause of death. The officers and Dr. Wallis questioned the man as to his destination, the officers taking his answer as Corning while Dr. Wallis thought it might be Casey, Ia. Sheriff L. B. Campbell called Corning to find out whether a Lafonte was known there or whether he had a nephew by the name of Louis Branshaw, but officers there could not give Sheriff Campbell any information.

Aged Resident of Quitman Dies Sunday

End Comes to Mrs. Macey Jane Weddle Smith, 85, at Home of Son in Clearmont.

Mrs. Macey Jane Weddle Smith, 85 years old, died at the home of her son, James Smith, Clearmont, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning from a nervous breakdown and complications.

Mrs. Smith had been a resident of Quitman for nearly eighty years, having come from the place of her birth, Brownstown, Ind., to Quitman at an early age. She had been a member of the Christian church at Quitman since childhood.

Mrs. Smith made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Anna Manorgan, Quitman, but had gone to visit her son at Clearmont about ten days ago.

Those surviving are two sons, James Smith, Clearmont, and Robert Smith, Quitman; one daughter, Mrs. Manorgan, Quitman; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Hankins and Mrs. Albine Malvern, Quitman; two brothers, James Weddle, Skidmore; and King Weddle, Quitman.

Funeral services were held at the Christian church at Quitman at 2:30 o'clock today. Burial was at Quitman.

Mrs. Charles Viles and Mrs. Fern Crull of Maryville attended the funeral this afternoon.

JOB FILES AS CANDIDATE FOR LEGISLATURE

Present Representative Seeks a Sixth Term in Lower House of State Assembly.

William Job, who lives southeast of Maryville, late Saturday afternoon filed his declaration as a candidate for nomination as representative from Nodaway county to the Missouri General Assembly.

Mr. Job is running for re-election, having been elected five times—to the Forty-Ninth, Fiftieth, Fifty-Second, Fifty-Third and Fifty-Fourth General Assemblies.

Mr. Job is a farmer and dairyman and is known as "Farmer" Job at the state capitol.

In the last session of the state legislature, Mr. Job served as a member of the agriculture, education, forms and phraseology, and taxation and revenue committees.

Mr. Job was one of the six farmers who organized the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Company here.

He is the only candidate to date who has filed for representative from this county.

NOT ENOUGH PETITIONERS

MORE NAMES NEEDED TO BRING ABOUT BAND ELECTION.

CITY COUNCIL RULES

2,500 Qualified Voters in Maryville, That Body Estimates.—10 Per Cent Required.

Drafting of an ordinance by the city attorney for adoption by the city council, calling a special election to submit to the voters the proposition of a one mill levy for band purposes, has been delayed because the petition presented to the council did not have the required number of signers.

This statement was made today by Mayor W. O. Garrett. Last week a petition was filed with 105 signatures, praying the council to submit the question at a special election. Mayor Garrett said investigation of the law showed that a petition must carry at least 10 per cent of the qualified voters of the district. The men who took the petition around for signers were of the opinion that only 10 per cent of the voters who cast votes at the last election for mayor was necessary. At the last election for mayor 960 votes were cast.

Mayor Garrett said that the number of qualified voters of the city was for the city council to decide and this body estimates the number at 2,500. The highest number of votes cast at any election by qualified voters in Maryville was 2,367.

This means that 145 more petitioners must be obtained before any action is taken by the council toward submitting the band tax proposal at a special election.

The petition solicitors were notified last week that more names were needed, but up to today no further move had been made by Ed Arnold or Guy Mercer, to seek more signatures. These men were on a committee from the Chamber of Commerce. The council was advised, however, that the necessary signatures for the proposal would be submitted in a few days.

Hope to Oust Crime Before Convention

Kansas City Police Board in Special Session Today—Chief Takes "Vacation."

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—Determined to reduce crime in Kansas City before the Republican national convention here next month, the police board called a special session for today.

The meeting was to be attended by Lincoln R. Toyne, acting chief of police. Chief William A. Shreeve announced he would be gone three weeks on a "vacation."

The police commissioners and Mayor Beach also were expected to attend the meeting, which may result in a thorough re-organization, according to widespread reports.

Charges, said to have been made by Howard McCutcheon head of the Law Enforcement Association, that police officials failed to act when he presented to them evidence of gambling, were expected to be considered.

Unverified reports were that the absence of Chief Shreeve was the prelude to appointment of a new police head.

McNary-Haugen Bill Report Is Adopted

Washington, May 14.—The House today adopted the conference report on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill and sent it to the Senate. After Senate approval, the measure will go to the White House for signing or veto.

EXPECT FALL OF TIENTSIN

CHINESE NATIONALISTS ADVANCING TO THE NORTH.

MAY INVOLVE JAPAN

Southern China Government Seeks Attitude of United States Toward Situation.

Shanghai, May 14.—Advance of the Chinese Nationalist army to the north continued today, and the fall of Tientsin was expected momentarily.

General Chiang Kai Shek, Nationalist leader, whose most recent engagements have been with the Japanese in Shantung Province, was reported to be marching north with little or no opposition from the the Northern armies. The Northerners were reported withdrawing from their last lines of defense.

It was believed here that, simultaneous with Chiang's entrance into Tientsin, another Southern leader, General Feng Yu Hisiang, would take his forces into Peking. In that event, observers believed, General Chano Tso Lin, the Northern leader, would withdraw from Peking to Manchuria.

May Draw Japan In.

Fresh complications were seen in such moves. Japanese militarists already are in Manchuria and the Japanese government repeatedly has emphasized that Japan is in a "special position" there and in Mongolia. Should Chang Tso Lin retreat to this stronghold of Manchuria and should the Southern armies advance there after him, it was believed Tokio could not remain inactive and that it was likely Japanese military contingents would be placed at strategic positions in Manchuria.

At the same time, Russia, because of her geographical position, maintains a close watch on all affairs in the Manchurian Province.

Moreover, Russia is interested in the Chinese Eastern railroad, operating through Manchuria, and would watch any military moves involving it.

Diplomatic groups hoped some agreement might be reached whereby extensive fighting between the Southerners and Northerners in the Peking and Tientsin areas might be avoided. Some sort of conciliation might be possible to prevent any internal warfare reaching Manchuria.

The situation in Shantung Province is quiet.

Note Sent To Coolidge.

Shanghai, May 14.—The Nanking—or Southern China—government has sent a note to President Coolidge asking America's attitude towards the present situation in Tsinan, where the Chinese Nationalists and Japanese expeditionary forces have recently been fighting.

The note was intended merely to find, if possible, America's reaction, it was learned.

It was said the Nanking government action had been encouraged by the report that Senator Borah had asked the United States Secretary of State Kellogg to investigate.

Priest Held for Ransom.

Shanghai, May 14.—A ransom of $20,000 has been demanded for the Rev. J. L. Alor of the Hanyang Catholic mission who was captured by Chinese bandits May 4.

The priest was captured about 100 miles west of Hankow.

Officials here were unable to learn how to communicate with the bandits who made the ransom demands.

U. S. May Join in Defense.

Washington, May 14. — The United States will probably join with the other powers in defending the 8,000 foreigners in Tientsin, if the situation there becomes acute, instead of attempting to evacuate the 900 Americans now there, it was declared in official quarters today as the Chinese Nationalist drive neared Tienstin.

The United States followed the same defense plan when Shanghai fell to the Nationalists in March, 1927, American marines at that time co-operating with

May Investigate Couzens Tax Case

Favorable Report Made on LaFollette Resolution Authorizing Senatorial Inquiry.

Washington, May 14.—A favorable report on the LaFollette resolution authorizing a senatorial investigation of the Couzens tax case was ordered today by the Senate judiciary committee.

If adopted by the Senate, the resolution will authorize the judiciary committee to investigate circumstances surrounding the action of the Treasury Department in levying a $10,000,000 back tax assessment against Senator Couzens of Michigan, which the board of tax appeals recently overruled.

The assessment was made while Couzens was participating in a senatorial investigation of the Treasury Department which resulted in a bitter feud between him and Secretary Mellon.

To Make Speeches on Al Smith Campaign

Senator Heflin Says He Will Make Daily Attacks Hoping to "Expose" Tammany Machine.

Washington, May 14.—Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, served notice in the Senate today that he will make daily speeches from now until adjournment of Congress on the presidential campaign of Governor Al Smith.

"I will do all I can to expose the tactics of this Tammany machine," he said, "and I hope the campaign committee will make a thorough investigation."

Showers to Develop Into Heavy Rainfall

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—Rain was reported today in central and western Kansas and in many sections of Missouri. Weather forecasters here said today's showers will develop into a fairly heavy rainfall tonight and tomorrow.

Temperatures tomorrow will be slightly lower than today, forecasters said.

RESCUE SHIPS MAKE LANDING

BREMEN RESCUERS FAIL TO REACH FUELING DEPOT.

ONE AVIATOR IS ILL

Lieut. Quesada Relieves Lieut. Fairchild, Who Flew to Newfoundland With Expedition.

Halifax, N. S., May 14.—Two United States army airplanes on the way to Greenly Island to the rescue of the transatlantic airplane Bremen, landed today on the Shubenacadie river near Maitland. Maitland is fifty miles from Pictou, where the planes had intended to refuel.

Land at 11 a. m.

Montreal, Que., May 14.—Dispatches reaching here this afternoon said the two American planes en route to Greenly Island had landed at Maitland, Hants County, Nova Scotia, a little before 11 o'clock E. S. T.

When they left St. John, N. B., this morning, it was with the intention of flying to Pictcu, N. S.

Take Off From St. John.

St. John, N. B., May 14.—One of the two U. S. planes en route to Greenly Island took off from the harbor here at 8:45 a. m., today, and headed for Pictou, N. S.

The second plane left ten minutes after the first.

Fairchild Taken Ill.

Boston, May 14.—Lieutenant Muir Fairchild, who flew to St. Johns, N. S., with the expedition that has gone to remove the transatlantic airplane Bremen from Greenly Island, will be brought to Boston today en route to a hospital in Washington.

Fairchild, pilot of one of the army's two relief planes, was taken ill after the relief expedition arrived in St. Johns, Brig. Gen. James Fechet, chief of the army air service who is at St. Johns, ordered airplanes here to remove Fairchild.

Lieut. Richard Cobb and Lieut. E. R. Quesada left Boston late Sunday to fly to New Brunswick. Quesada will take Fairchild's place in the relief plane, while Cobb will bring Fairchild back to Boston.

Here the army lieutenant will be transferred to a Curtiss plane and taken on to Washington.

WHITE HOUSE DISCARDS USE OF CARRIAGES

Dobbin-Drawn Vehicles No Longer an Equipage of State.—Become Exhibit.

Washington, May 14.—Discarding of the horsedrawn vehicle as a carriage of state for the President, and subsequent rescue of President Roosevelt's Brougham and Woodrow Wilson's Victoria from the junk pile were disclosed by the War Department today.

An announcement revealed that all dobbin-drawn vehicles were discarded last February by the White House in favor of automobiles. For the last few years, they have been used by servants and housekeepers for shipping.

Then the victoria and brougham—important equipages of the heads of five administrations—were rescued from a junk-pile, on the order of Major-General B. F. Cheatham, army quartermaster-general, just as they were about to be offered for sale with other salvaged material.

They will be made a part of the permanent exhibit of the Postmaster-General's office.

The coachman at the White House, Daniel Webster, '62, saw the disaster coming, and learned to drive an automobile. He is now chauffeur for the car which replaced the carriages for errands.

DENIES PACT WITH DAWES

BUT LOWDEN ADMITS FRIENDSHIP AND SIMILAR VIEWS.

ABOUT $60,000 SPENT

Purpose to Re-Establish Alliance of Agriculture and Industry, Committee Is Told.

Washington, May 14.—Frank O. Lowden of Illinois denied to the Senate campaign investigating committee today that he had any agreement to trade delegates with Vice-President Charles G. Dawes but pointed out they were close friends and that they represented the same views on agriculture.

Pounding the committee table, Lowden said he entered the campaign because he believed it was up to the Republican party to re-establish the alliance between agriculture and industry.

To further his campaign along those lines, he said, his Chicago headquarters had received $64,700 and spent about $60,000.

Lowden said his personal books indicated he personally had announced $12,500, although his campaign manager's books indicated he gave $15,000.

The Lowden expenditure brought the total campaign expenses listed with the committee thus far to $440,184, with Secretary Hoover and Governor Al Smith leading in the amounts expended in their behalf.

$2,680 Spent by Watson.

Senator Watson of Indiana testified this afternoon he had personally spent $2,680.90 in his campaign for the Indiana delegation. From this amount, he said, he gave $1,000 to M. Bert Thurman, his campaign manager; $802.80 for printing and postage; $375 for traveling expenses and $500 to William Tahl, editor of "The Hoosier Farmer" for sending out a farm relief article.

Watson said he knew nothing regarding any fund collected for him or about money disbursed for him outside of his personal expenditures.

For an account of his organization expenditures, Watson referred the committee to Archie Bobbit, state deputy auditor, who acted as treasurer of the Watson-for-President campaign.

Watson said Secretary of Interior Work had assured him Secretary Hoover was not going into Indiana, but was informed later Hoover people had changed their minds because they were unable to agree with Senator Willis, of Ohio, about the Ohio delegates. Watson said he believed if his delegates were released they would go to a Mississippi Valley candidate but that he had no agreements with any one.

Friends Begin Organization.

Lowden was introduced to each committee member after being sworn.

Chairman Steiwer thanked Lowden for his kindness in appearing, whereupon Lowden started his testimony.

He said a year ago some people came to see him about the Presidency.

"I could only say I was doing nothing," he added. "Later a little group of friends asked me if they could not start an organization for me.

"I told them I had no objection, because my correspondence was getting a little heavy.

"In this group were Clarence F. Buck, Omar M. Custer, Galesburg, Ill., and Robert D. Clark, now of Los Angeles.

"They are the only ones I have consented to have act for me.

"I don't know whether they will call on me for more money," he added. "I would not like to have my friends give more than myself."

"A Real Fight On."

Lowden explained his theory of the campaign.

"I have felt all along the Republican

New York Chairman Lines Up for Hoover

New York, May 14.—George K. Morris, chairman of the Republican state committee, issued a statement today declaring himself in favor of Herbert Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination.

Morris said he had just spent ten days on a tour of the state, sounding out sentiment of delegates, and that the secretary of commerce was "an overwhelming favorite."

SUSTAINED BY FAITH.

"Faith sustained Bremen flyers," says a newspaper headline over the story of an address made recently by Baron von Huenefeld.

The baron and his companions have repeatedly stressed that point. By faith they conquered, as literally as any Biblical heroes; that is the keynote of every description any of them has given of their transatlantic flight. Yet we need not be surprised to hear them admit it. We might say that nothing really worth while was ever done in any other way.

Consider the matter for a moment. Before the deed, comes its conception in the mind of the doer. Between the first effort to put it into execution and the final triumph, come many hours of uncertainty, disillusion, hardship. What is it that keeps a man going in such things—if not faith? Where faith is lacking the job is given up. For it does not matter what you are doing, if it is truly important and worth while, there will be moments when ultimate victory seems utterly impossible of attainment. If you lack faith you quit, then and there.

During the American Revolution thert were many times when the future seemed absolutely hopeless. The long winter at Valley Forge would have seen the end of the effort had not Washington had faith—faith in Providence, faith in the cause, faith in the "ragged continentals," faith in himself.

A little later, when Jefferson fought against privilege and a powerful social aristocracy to make the new government a true democracy, there came times of almost complete discouragement and despair. The opposition was firmly entrenched; the masses of the people were scattered, disorganized, poor. Save for Jefferson's great faith they would have stayed that way, and we would today be living in a republic in which wealth and social position were all-powerful.

You could multiply instances all day. Lincoln during the Civil War; Roosevelt battling the trusts; Wilson smiting the lobbies at Washington—the story is always the same. Added to all the other qualities that made victory possible you will always find faith.

Not for nothing did the Biblical writers speak of the "faith that can move mountains." Faith, literally, can do exactly that—as Goethals proved when he dug the Panama canal. It is the one quality, possession of which distinguishes the great from the near-great, who lack it. Without faith you can accomplish nothing; with it, your possibilities are boundless.

The Campaign Log

MAY 14
By United Press

Senator Cole Blease of South Carolina is expected to attempt to have the South Carolina Democratic convention adopt a resolution which would place the state delegation to the national convention on record against any presidential candidate who favored repeal or modification of the prohibition amendment.

Friends of Charles D. Hilles, vice chairman of the Republican national committee, and George K. Norris, chairman of the New York state Republican committee, say they will not change their policy of having the New York delegation to Kansas City unpledged despite the speech of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon advocating Herbert Hoover as a Republican presidential nominee.

Frank O. Lowden was called to testify before the Senate campaign investigating committee today.

Georgia Democrats after a conference decided to conduct an active campaign in Southern states to have uninstructed delegations vote for Senator Walter George of Georgia at the Democratic national convention.

BLACK OFF ON NEW AIR TOUR

BALTIMORE PUBLISHER TO MAKE TRIP OF 37,000 MILES.

TO TOKIO AND RETURN

Wealthy American Seeks No Records —Wants Only to See All of World in Short Time.

Croydon Airdrome, May 14.—Van Lear Black, owner of the Baltimore Sun, started his second great air tour today—one that will take him more than 37,000 miles before it is completed.

He left here at 6:23 a. m., today for Athens in the great Fokker airplane of the Royal Dutch Airlines, in which he flew 18,000 miles as a passenger last year. From Athens he will proceed, with several stops, to Cairo and thence to Capetown.

The entire trip will include visits in Arabia, Persia, India, Burma, Siam, China and Tokio. From Japan the newspaper owner will return to Europe.

The Dutch pilots Geysendorffer and Scholte, who piloted the plane on Black's last trip, were at the controls today. In addition, Mechanic Weber and Black's valet, Leo, were in the cabin.

Black said goodbye to a number of personal friends and officials of the K. L. M.—Royal Dutch Air Lines—and the round trip of more than 37,000 miles began.

Flew 56,000 Miles in Year.

Between March 1, 1927, and March 1, 1928, Van Lear Black flew approximately 56,000 miles. Geysendorffer and Scholte were his pilots most of the time and he used the H-NADP, the Amsterdam-Batavia and London-Tokyo machine, whenever possible. He and his crew probably will have seen more of the world by air than anyone in history when the present flight is finished.

The H-NADP had been groomed to perfection for the start of the flight today. The Batavia flight was made on a single engine, but the plane is equipped with two more engines—Jupiter Titans—for the present journey. New engines will be waiting at Cairo when the air tourists land there after the London-Cairo-Capetown and back to Cairo of the flight.

"This is purely a pleasure flight, as my others have been," Black told the United Press in announcing the flight. "It is a way of seeing the most of the world in the shortest time. I have no business interests on the route and am not trying to prove anything of scientific or commercial nature."

A valet is a very valuable member of an air tourist party, Black explained. Leo will not only take care of the packing and unpacking along the route, but his duties will include most everything except acting as relief pilot. The party stops at a hotel every night—at least that is the schedule—and the flying valet will be rather busy every time he comes to earth.

Many Receptions Arranged.

Social duties will be rather trying during the trip Black indicated. Official receptions, banquets, private parties and other entertainments will line the route of the flyers. Black has received almost 100 letters of introduction. "We will land somewhere after several hours of flying, hurry to a hotel to dress for dinner or reception, and after the party probably get up at dawn to hop off again." But it is all in the day's work while seeing the world from the air.

A long flight such as the present one is not all pleasure. A forced landing over certain parts of the route might mean disaster. Jungle and desert will be crossed, through the heat of Central Africa and the monsoon country of British India. But Van Lear Black and his men face it all with a smile—and carry no fire-arms at all.

"We have never carried firearms," Black said. "We landed in the desert once enroute to Batavia, and before we knew where they came from, a crowd of natives had collected. We might have as well landed in Piccadilly Circus. Scholte told me to smile, so we all smiled and there was no trouble. I don't believe there is much danger from the natives if you treat them kindly."

Pilots Are Veterans.

THE VOICE IS THE VOICE OF JACOB, BUT—

Black has the utmost confidence in his pilots. Geysendorffer is the veteran pilot in the Royal Dutch Lines organization, the oldest commercial air navigation company in the world. He has flown over various European routes for seven years. Both Gysendorffer and Scholte have landed planes, loaded with passengers, safely after one wheel has been broken. Weber is an experienced mechanic and Leo "is a fixture," as Black expressed it. He has served the publisher for seven years.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in preparing a petrol supply along the route but it was successfully handled by the Shell-Mex company and Wakefield, Ltd. The route includes 33 possible landing places where sufficient petrol and oil have been stored for the machine, with a margin of about 50 per cent for emergencies. Placing the fuel was the hardest part of the advance preparations. Donkey pack trains were used in some cases, and natives did the work in others.

The H-NADP weighs four and one-half tons, loaded. Spare parts for the machine, including a propeller and all parts for the engines, constitute the chief part of the equipment. Baggage includes all necessary clothes for Mr. Black and his crew, from tropical weather outfits to full evening dress. Sufficient fuel for about eight hours' flying is carried. There is no wireless aboard.

party has a real fight on next fall. I think Senator Barkley and Senator Bratton (the two Democrats on the committee) will agree with me," he said.

"I hope you are right," Barkley interrupted.

"Well, I have felt that way," Lowden continued, "and I decided I wouldn't do anything which would work against my election if I were nominated.

"I have tried to avoid fights in any state.

"We decided we would not set up an organization in any state unless the Republicans of that state were sufficiently aggressive so that they would get together on their own initiative and undertake to conduct the campaign."

Troubles Over If Beaten.

"If I am not nominated, my troubles are all over," he continued. If I am nominated, my troubles will begin."

McMaster asked if it were not true that South Dakota expenses amounted to only $124. Lowden said he did not know and suggested the committee call Buck for details.

Lowden will be followed by Senator Watson of Indiana, last of the fourteen candidates to face the Senate inquisitors.

Lowden has not been conducting an active campaign, although he has accumulated a delegate strength to date estimated in United Press reports at 202. These come particularly from mid-Western states, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri and Arkansas.

Watson has conducted no campaign outside his home state, where he defeated Secretary Hoover in the primary last week.

Gives General Indication.

Figures gathered by the committee on the expenses of each of the candidates to date give little more than a general indication of the financial end of the battle for delegates. Testimony adduced thus far has revealed the following known expenditures:

Republicans: Hoover $241,274 including all the associated Hoover clubs except that in northern California; Curtis of Kansas, $11,468; Borah of Idaho, nothing; Norris of Nebraska, $6; Goff of West Virginia, approximately $60.

Democrats—Gov. Al Smith, $92,090 (not including any local state expenditures except those made from money furnished by the Smith New York headquarters); Reed of Missouri, $31,196; George of Georgia, approximately $156; Goodell Hull of Tennessee, approximately $1,000; Walsh of Montana, (retired), $1,190; Hitchcock of Nebraska, $1,744.

From Port Arthur, Ont., comes a dispatch telling of a rain of fine mud that spattered people, houses and streets. Do they have Democrats and Republicans in Canada, too?

The only effects found by the officers were a razor case which contained a razor and a hack saw, and a Bible. Some names had been written on one of the front pages of the Bible, but had been erased and could not be read. When Chief Dougan asked about his identification the dying man handed him the Bible. Chief Dougan asked him if he wanted anyone notified and asked what church he belonged to.

The stranger replied that the Bible was his church. He did not want anyone to know of his whereabouts and said if he died he would just as soon die here. His speech was broken, and Dr. Wallis described it as rather "Frenchy."

On Train at Trenton.

Lafonte got on the train at Trenton and went to Gallatin, where the trainmen there bought him a ticket to Maryville.

He told the officers here something about having been at "Macon City."

However, what he said was discounted by officers because of the false information regarding his nephew at Corning. There were no marks on the body by which he might be identified, the undertakers said today.

The only time during the day that the man seemed to speak clearly was when it was suggested he be taken to the hospital. Then he emphatically said, "No," that he just wanted to "rest up" a while before going on his way. The physicians suggested that he rest for two or three hours at the police station and then be taken to the hospital. Claud Stults, fire chief, said he heard the man muttering something to himself about 2 o'clock in the afternoon but could not make out what he said. Stults did not go into the man's cell again until about 4 o'clock when he noticed he was low and then called the mayor and physician.

Officers were to decide today what disposition would be made of the body if it was not identified. In case of a person being unidentified the body generally is sent to the state anatomical board, but Dr. Wallis said this morning the board had about enough bodies on hand.

Superintendent of a Sunday School Kills

Munhall, Pa., May 14.—A Sunday school superintendent, I. T. Tyrrell, was held today in connection with the death of Philip Clark, who was shot and killed in the First Christian Church yesterday just as the pastor began a mother's day sermon.

The shooting followed an argument between the two men over Tyrrell's defense of Mrs. Clark in a recent separation suit. The woman works in the Sunday school superintendent's law office.

Clark was said to have demanded that Tyrrell resign as superintendent of the Sunday school and also was said to have accused the attorney of being responsible for the marital difficulties that brought about the recent separation suit.

Work of Hopkins School Shown to Many Visitors Friday Night

The entire years' work in practically every department of the Hopkins grade and high school was displayed Friday night, when the school building was opened for the patrons' inspection.

Each room of the building had something of interest, and a bit of action was added by the high school orchestra and a tumbling team developed by Principal Ted Search.

Works of art in the primary grades were astounding in the many ideas depicted on posters, in booklets and other ingenious ways. George Washington books, Abraham Lincoln pamphlets, valentines, winter scenic representations, travel booklets, geographical drawings, penmanship displays, arithmetic tests, spelling tests and sewing class displays in both eighth grade and high school and hundreds of other objects to numerous to mention, lined the walls of the rooms and gave the large quota of visitors an idea of the work that is accomplished in the school of today.

Doll House Attracts.

One of the greatest attractions was made by the pupils of the second grade, which is taught by Mrs. Ellis Andrews of Hopkins. This was a large doll house, the frame of which was of building board and lumber. It stood perhaps three feet high and was proportionately built in other dimensions.

Open to view from the outside were tiny rooms, fully equipped with furniture of the children's own handiwork. Tiny rocking chairs, bureaus, tables, benches and other furnishing, closely resembling modern house equipment, made with coping saws, were located in the rooms. A bath room, was equipped with tub, sink and chair. The tub and sink were carved from soap.

A stairway could be seen leading to the upper story of the structure. Carpets were on the floors and to the casual observer nothing was left out of the picture.

A salt map made by Walter Yeomans stood out as one of the most admirable pieces of work in the junior high school display. South America, the theme of the design, was outlined by a depression in a piece of soft wood, and filled with salt dyed in different colors representing various territories, divisions and physical distinctions of South America.

Sewing Display Good.

The sewing display of the high school class of eight girls was an attractive part of the exhibition, as well as the eighth grade girls' sewing array.

Theodore Search, principal of the Hopkins school, inaugurated a surprise in the tumbling act presented by his gymnasium class of boys. During the year he has made nearly every member of the class an agile tumbler, capable of acrobatics rivalling those of a professional. Complete airial flips were the feature of the act. The gymnasium, where the act was held, was filled to overflowing.

The high school orchestra, under the direction of Willis Van Horn, entertained a full house in the auditorium for some time with a varied selection of numbers.

Called to Kansas City.

Mrs. J. C. Godbey was called to Kansas City, Saturday to be with her son, Clarence, who is recovering from an accident. The boy was thrown from a motorcycle.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dooley and Miss Pearl Dooley of Manhattan, Kansas, have been visiting in Hopkins recently. Mr. Dooley and Miss Dooley will return soon, but Mrs. Dooley will remain in Hopkins for an extended visit with relatives and friends.

Attend Brown Funeral.

J. W. Lindsey, Hardy Lindsey and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones of St. Joseph attended the funeral services of Edward Brown, which were held at Hopkins yesterday.

Local Odd Fellows at Liberty Dedication

Huge Crowd Attends Homecoming at Liberty.—Two Nodaway Countians in Home There.

Fourteen persons from Maryville and Ravenwood attended the third annual homecoming of the Odd Fellows Lodge and the dedication of the I. O. O. F. Hospital at Liberty yesterday. It was the largest affair ever to be held in Liberty, the crowd being estimated at 20,000. More than 4500 cars were on the grounds.

Those from this county who attended were:

Harry King, Amos Sprecher, E. A. Nelson, Frank Jackson, Joe Cornell, Mr. and Mrs. George Rimel, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilson and daughter, Ella Jane, all of Maryville; Mr. and Mrs. Vern Chambers and son, and Charley Buholt, Ravenwood.

Caleb May, who was taken into Barnard Lodge 282 in November 6, 1889, and who has been an Odd Fellow thirty-nine years, is now in the Odd Fellows Home at Liberty. Mr. May, years ago was a janitor at the Washington school here and he told the Maryville persons who visited with him, "I rang that school bell six times a day for nine years."

Another Nodaway countian in the home is G. T. Tibbets, who has been a member of the Lodge at Hopkins since 1867.

Special train and bus service, together with the large number of Odd Fellows who drove from various points over the state, was responsible for the crowd that filled the town.

A contest was held between the different degree teams. A silver loving cup was awarded to the Lockwood Lodge for giving the best drill.

A mammoth platform seated 100 officials of lodges. Harry King of Maryville, who will represent Missouri at the Grand Lodge to be held in Columbia the last of next week, was given a place on the platform.

The dedication ceremony was broadcast. Hiram Lloyd, past grand master, presented the hospital to the Grand Lodge. The building was accpeted by George H. Starritt, grand master of the state lodge.

Thirty-two children of the home participated in the dedication ceremony.

Speaking, a parade and band concerts were other features of the day.

The home has been established since 1895 and now is taking care of 124 children and 174 elderly persons. With 252 acres of farm, forty-four cows, 120 hogs and 200 hens, it is supported independent of other agencies and is maintained by the Odd Fellows of Missouri.

This and That

When the marriage ceremony was performed and the judge named the usual price, the bridegroom asked his father-in-law if he had that amount, which was duly turned over.

MORE WHEAT IN NODAWAY

20,930 ACRES TO BE HARVESTED, AGAINST 9,800 IN 1927.

STATE CROP IS POOR

Record Abandonment of 32 Per Cent Is Reported.—Oats and Pastures Need Rain.

After deducting the abandonment, the farmers of Nodaway county estimate their wheat acreage remaining for 1928 harvest at 20,930 acres, compared to 9,800 acres harvested in 1927, upon which the condition is 75 per cent normal against 79 per cent last May, and 83 per cent for the local five year average. Other leading local crop conditions are oats, 50 per cent; hay, 67 per cent; and pastures, 70 per cent.

The Missouri wheat crop made little progress during April owing to lack of moisture and cool weather accompanied by frost in many localities, and a condition of 65 per cent normal, on 1,489,000 acres remaining for harvest, indicates 15,486,000 bushels against 15,580,000 from 1,558,000 acres harvested in 1927, according to E. A. Logan of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics and Jewell Mayes of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture.

The abandonment from the Missouri acreage seeded last fall is 32 per cent, the greatest in the history of the Crop Reporting Service, in fact, the heaviest abandonment for over 50 years.

Missouri farmers in the fall of 1927 seeded 2,189,000 acres, of which they have lost from winter kill (due to drouth and freezing) 32 per cent, or 700,000 acres. Abandonment is greatest in the eastern third of the state and South Central Ozark counties. From 40 to 62 per cent of the crop is lost in these districts, but some counties and localities report losses up to 95 per cent of the seedings. During April wheat made small growth, and fields are spotted and patchy.

Moisture Is Needed.

The wheat crop needs moisture and warm weather in all sections except in the extreme south. Timber windbreaks shielded some fields and others have been kept because seeded to clover which in usual years would not have gone to harvest. Also in some instances farmers are not equipped to use more crop-land. Abandoned wheat has been sown to oats or will be planted to corn, soybeans, sorghum, cowpeas, etc. Condition of 65 per cent for May compares with 82 per cent last year, and with 83 per cent for the five-year average.

Rye crops also need rain, and condition is 73 per cent on the 22,000 acres seeded indicates 225,000 bushels, against 264,000 last year, as farmers expecting a yield around 10 bushels per acre.

Missouri oats, now 73 per cent condition, were sown in good season, but have been damaged by freezes and need moisture. They are getting off to a stunted start; stands poor and uneven. Some fields have been reseeded in northern counties. Drilled oats are better than broadcast.

Hay crops are not favorable for heavy yields, and have made poor growth. Much young clover and timothy have been killed by freezes and drouth. Alfalfa, hurt by freezes, is making a slow recovery. Meadow prospects 77 per cent are now for low yields. Pastures, 72 per cent, show little grodth; stock are being fed in northern and central counties; rains are badly needed for favorable growth.

Fruit Prospects Poor.

Fruit prospects are poor for pears, plums, and peaches, which are 36 per cent of a crop, but favorable for apples excepting early varieties; also strawberries, grapes, and the cane fruits which have not yet blossomed. Gardens and potatoes, making slow growth, have been injured and retarded by cold weather. Some garden and truck replanting is necessary.

Corn planting is well along, up to the northern border. Plowing for corn was nearly completed by May 1, and much of the crop is now planted, although some early plantings of corn have been replanted. Eastern Missouri has planted the 1928 corn crop in good time, in contrast to last year when more or less planting was delayed until near July 1. Ground has been well prepared, and W. D. Wade, (La Monte) says, "farmers are working early and late to make a corn crop."

Missouri soil conditions are excellent, but need more moisture for best plant growth which has been slow. Spring planted crops are backward. Livestock in many sections are not on full pasture, and milk production is below last year from shortage of grass. Many eastern Missouri farmers are buying grain feed upon which to make a crop. Rain soon would make decided changes in crop conditions.

The United States winter wheat is 35,858,000 acres for harvest after deducting abandonment from the 47,844,000 seeded last fall with 73.8 per cent normal. Poor prospects prevail in winter wheat states east of Mississippi river but are much better in the hard winter wheat states west of the Missouri. The yield expected is 479,086,000 bushels against 552,384,000 in 1927. Oats condition is 67.5 per cent, rye 73.6 per cent, hay, 76.1 per cent; potatoes 76.3 per cent; peaches 73.8 per cent and pastures 71.3 per cent.

Individual Tests.

As individual tests Mr. Prather suggested these questions: "Does my search for God bring mental and spiritual satisfaction?" "Does it make me appreciate my relationships with God in prayer, in thought, in service?" "Does it increase my appreciation for Jesus?" "Is there improvement in moral standards and in overcoming evil habits?" "Is there a tendency toward loving service to others?" "Am I advancing in Christian knowledge?"

"Many questions," he continued, "are not answered satisfactorily even by the world's masters. Questions about God, about sin, about human worth, about the future. In all the various answers is the question 'Whom shall I follow? What is the truth about God to which I can anchor?'

"The answer to our quest for God is found in Christ Jesus. Our questions will not all be answered at once, nor will they be answered fully. But patient and sympathetic study will gradually reveal the truth.

"Jesus reveals a future of life and hope. Jesus is the Alpha and Omega of your noblest quest for God. He is the truth in which you may confidently rest.

Challenges Search.

"He challenges your most earnest search. In the perfection of His manhood, in His divine claims, in the Book of which He is the center, in His preeminence in the history of the world, and in the hearts of many who love Him.

"Into the world's darkness comes the Christ, the Light of the World. Into the confusion of the world's sin, comes Jesus and His cleansing power. Into the world's sorrow and despair comes Jesus with comfort and hope. Into the world's death comes Jesus with life eternal."

Major James Fitzmaurice, Baron Guenther Von Huenefeld and Captain Hermann Koehl came here yesterday from Chicago.

St. Louis, Mo., May 14.—The city which sent Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his west-east air crossing of the Atlantic, has prepared a two-day welcome for the Bremen crew, east-west conquerorers of the Lindbergh trail.

After their arrival at Lambert St. Louis field this afternoon, they will transfer to new airplanes and fly a short distance to the old air mail field here, near which a municipal reception was arranged. Tonight they will dine with the German consul.

Tuesday's program includes a civic parade, breaking ground at the site of the proposed new German house here, luncheon with August A. Busch, and a public dinner at night given by the chamber of commerce. The flyers are scheduled to leave here at 9.30 a. m. Wednesday for Detroit.

Says Regeneration of Motherhood Is Needed

Woman Preeminently the "Mother of Man," Says Rev. Mitchell.—Few Women Haters.

"What this day needs for her regeneration is mothers of the Suzanna Wesley mold. Mothers who care more for beauty of soul than beauty of the body. The mother who cares more for grace in her child's heart, than grace in the toes of a debutante. Mothers whose joy and life may be found in the words of the Virgin, 'He that is mighty hath magnified me and holy is His name.'"

These conclusions were contained in a Mother's Day sermon given at the M. E. Church, South, yesterday morning by the Rev. R. A. Mitchell.

The text was taken from Exodus 20: 12, "Honor thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

"There are few women haters," the Reverend Mr. Mitchell said. "Noble men have honored women after some fashion since the beginning of time. The first afternoon after school begins, you can witness a little boy picking out some curly headed neighbor girl and asking to carry her books home for her. He would fight if you suggested it, but he is very fond of girls."

The minister described the lives and work of Edith Cavell, Jenny Lind, Florence Nightingale and Susanna Wesley, and declared "such mothers are an essential quality to Christian civilization."

"Women can compose music, but they are not musicians. They paint pictures, but they are not artists. They can find new stars, but they are not astronomers. They can heal the sick, but they are not physicians. They can superintend the schools of great cities, but they are not educators. They can enter with success well nigh every department of human endeavor, but they are not administrators. They glorify the pulpit, but they are not politicians. God made them to be and pre-eminently they will always remain 'The Mothers of Men.'" the Reverend Mr. Mitchell asserted.

Mothers of Today Urged to Carry on

Theirs the Heritage of Transmitting Ideals, Training Child, Making Home, Dewar Says.

The tasks of the mothers of yesterday have been discharged with honor upon a new generation of mothers, and the greatest memorial is a life of devotion to the ideals handed down, the Rev. William N. Dewar said in a Mother's Day sermon yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

"To neglect our duty in the highest that life demands of us cannot be compensated by any sort of special day," the Reverend Mr. Dewar said. "If we are to remember the good in the lives of those gone before us, it is to the end that we practice that good and improve on it."

The Reverend Mr. Dewar asserted the task of the mother today is to carry on the hallowed traditions of the mothers of past ages, for the sake of their own age and the ages to come.

"A mother who is negligent of her duty to her home and her children cannot make up for that deficiency by any display of emotionalism on a specially prescribed occasion," he declared.

Referring to Beecher's 'The Mother's heart is the child's schoolroom,' the Reverend Mr. Dewar said: "There is no teacher comparable to a mother, who knows how precious are the moments of childhood in all the afterlife of her children, and who trains herself to make those moments golden with the fruitage not only of time but eternity."

The education of the children in the things of the spirit; the minister gave as the most important functions of the home, adding that no one is better suited for the task than the mother.

"There is no adequate substitute for a mother's instruction in the life of any child. There is truth in the proverb, 'An ounce of mother is worth a pound of preacher.' And we may add to that, that the best theological seminary in the world is a mother's knee.

"Deprive a child of a mother's loving instruction in that which makes for education of the child's spiritual faculties and it will never be able to say with Lincoln 'All that I am or hope to be, I owe to my angel mother.'"

As his closing thought the Reverend Mr. Dewar declared the mother of today needs to make the home a "haven of rest and peace."

"The strength of the nation is its intelligent, well-ordered homes. And such is the home because it is the one place in all the world where a man can find his sanity through rest and peace in the midst of the harrassing toil of a topsy-turvy world.

"We owe the home to the mothers of yesterday, who have handed on the heritage to the mothers of today.

HAS RAISED 70 CROPS OF CORN.

Here is a record that will be hard to beat: H. C. Williams has raised 70 crops of corn, never missing a season in that period. He started helping with corn growing when he was nine years old, when a single shovel and a 15 or 20 acre crop was common. In those days in Indiana, where he first began work, three rounds with a single shovel between each corn row was the rule. But they raised big crops as the land was new.

Mr. Williams came to Holt County in 1863, locating east of Oregon.

He has been a resident of this community many years, living south of town.—Maitland Herald.

With the bathing beauty contest at Atlantic City called off this year, wonder how we're ever going to find out who are the "home girls, kind to their mothers, love to wash dishes," etc?

GIRL ALONE

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE

By ANNE AUSTIN, AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

The summer she is 16, SALLY FORD leaves the state orphanage, the only home she has known from the time she was four, to be "farmed out" to CLEM CARSON. At the Carson farm she meets DAVID NASH, athlete and student who is working on the farm during the summer. When Carson makes insulting remarks about David's friendship for Sally, David hits him a terrific blow.

David and Sally run away and join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally in a sideshow disguised as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

NITA, a Hula dancer, becomes infatuated with David and shows her enmity for Sally. Sally tells MRS. BYBEE, wife of the show owner, that her mother once lived in Stanton, the town where the carnival is now showing. The manager's wife agrees to investigate and learn what she can. She returns from her trip to tell Sally that the woman, who left her at the orphanage was not her mother, but a maid hired to take the baby from the real mother in New York and disappear. As Sally leaves the Pullman after hearing this news from Mrs. Bybee she sees Nita and believes she has been eavesdropping.

The last day in Stanton Sally is paralyzed with fear to learn that they are moving next day to the capital city, where she spent so many years in the orphans' home. Knowing that the police are after them for the Carson affair, she hurries to tell David they must run away again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 22

"Poor kid!" David consoled her after her first almost hysterical outburst. "I can't talk to you now, and you shouldn't be here. You've got to go back for your last performance. The show has to go on. They've been decent to us, and we can't throw them over without warning."

"But David we've got to run away again!" Sally whimpered, clinging to both his arms, bare to the shoulders in anticipation of his work in helping to load the carnival for its 30-mile drag to the capital. "We can't go back to Capital City! We'll be caught! Listen, David—"

"Go back to your show tent," David commanded her sternly. "I'll be working pretty late helping to load up, but I'll whistle a bar from 'Always' under your Pullman window. We all sleep on the train tonight, and pull out for Capital City some time before morning. We pick up the engine at three o'clock, I believe. Plenty of time then to decide what to do." He shook her a little to make her stop shivering and whimpering with fear. "Buck up, honey! I'm not going to let the police get you; neither is Pop Bybee. Dear little Sally!" and he stooped from his great height to brush the tip of her short, brown-powdered nose with his lips.

During the last performance in the Palace of Wonders a village constable, his star shining importantly from the lapel of his Palm Beach suit, sauntered leisurely through the tent, eyeing the freaks with skeptical amusement and asking all the Smart-Aleck questions which the more timid members of the carnival crowd longed to ask and did not dare.

"Bet you wouldn't let me put any of that glass you're eatin' in my coffee," he guffawed to the ostrich man whom Gus, the barker, was ballyhooing at the moment. "I'm on to all you guys. Rock candy, ain't it?"

"Sure, officer," Gus interrupted his spiel to answer deferentially. "Won't you have a little snack with the human ostrich? I particularly recommend these nails. Boffo eats only the choicest six-penny nails; will accept no substitutes. And if a nail's rusty, out with it! Sort of an epicure, Boffo is! Have a handful of glass and nails with Boffo, officer! Big-hearted, that's Boffo!"

The constable refused hastily and the crowd roared with delight. The discomfited officer of the law ambled over to make his disparaging inspection of Jan, the giant from Holland.

"Pull up your pants legs and let me see your stilts," the constable ordered authoriatively. "I ain't the sucker you guys think I am. I'm on to your tricks—been going to carnivals man and boy for 50 years."

With his eyes as remote and sad and patient as if he had not heard or understood a word of the constable's insult, Jan obeyed, rolling his trousers to the knees. When the Doubting Thomas representative of the law had pinched the pale, putty-colored flesh of Jan's pitifully thin calves and found them to be flesh-and-blood indeed, he passed on, red of face, furious at the snorts of laughter which filled the tent.

"What if he takes a notion to wash my face?" Sally shivered, bending low in an attitude of mystic concentration over the crystal which she was pretending to read for a farmer's wife who had no interest in Boffo, the human ostrich, who did have perfect faith in the powers of "Princess Lalla." "What if he is just pretending to be interested in the other freaks and is really looking for me? Has Nita dared to tip him off that Sally Ford is here?

But her little sing-song voice droned on, predicting prosperity and happiness and "a journey by land and sea" for the credulous farmer's wife.

"What's your real name, sister?" the constable demanded loudly, officiously, stamping up the steps that led to the little platform.

"Please," Sally pleaded prettily, making her eyes wide and cloudy with mystic visions, "do not een-terr-upt! The veesion she will go away!"

"You let her alone, Sam Pelton!" the farmer's wife commanded tartly. "Go on, Princess Lalla. I think you're just wonderful—knowing about my mother being dead and even her name and all." And Sally continued the reading with Constable Pelton breathing audibly upon her neck as she bent her small head gravely over the crystal. When she could think of nothing else to tell the highly pleased woman, she was desperate. It seemed to her that everyone in the tent was looking at her, reading panic in her trembling fingers, in her fluttering eyelids.

"Gimme a knock-down to my past, present and future, Sister," the constable suggested with heavy sarcasm and jocularity. "Reckon an officer of the law don't have to pay. And you'd better make it a good one, or I'll run you in for obtaining money under a false pretenses. Come on, now! Miz Holtzman has already give you a good tip-off, and I guess my star speaks for itself. Knowing my name and my business, you oughta be able to fake a pretty good line for me, but if you don't tell me my wife's name, how many kids I got, where I come from, and anything else I'm a mind to ask you, I'll make you a present of free board and lodging at the county's expense."

Unknown to Sally, whose eyes were fixed, blind with fear, upon the crystal tightly cupped in her ice-cold palms, Gus, the barker, had drawn near enough to hear the constable's threats and demands.

"Sure, officer!" he boomed hearily, to Sally's amazement, "just ask the little lady anything you like. She sees all, knows all. Step right up, folks, and hear Princess Lalla, favorite crystal-gazer to the Sultan of Turkey before she escaped from his harem, tell your fellow-townsman, Constable Sam Pelton, the truth, the whole truth and something besides the truth—a few things that are going to happen to him that Officer Sam don't yet dream of! Step right up, folks! don't be bashful! Step up and get an earful about your esteemed fellow-townsman and officer of the law—"

Sally felt the ice melting slowly in her veins. Dear Gus! He was stalling, gaining time, subtly frightening the constable, whose face had gone redder and redder, whose eyes glanced with furtive unease from the crystal to the grinning faces of his "fellow-townsmen," who apparently had no great love for Constable Sam Pelton.

Then that which Gus had arranged by means of a code signal took place. Two "schillers," hastily summoned by a carnival employe, suddenly broke into loud curses and sharp, slapping blows which echoed in the instantly quiet tent.

"Pick my pocket, would you?" the raucous voice of a "schiller" demanded between slaps and punches. "I seen you—sneakin' your hand in my pocket!"

Constable Pelton, glad to be able to assert his authority, glad also, possibly, to escape a too intimate revelation of his past, bounded from the platform, collared the fighting "schillers," and dragged them triumphantly away.

When the last stragglers of the carnival crowd had been ushured rather unceremoniously from the tent, Sally rose from her chair and patteredd swiftly to where Gus, the barker, stood talking with Pop Bybee, owner and manager of Bybee's Bigger and Better Carnival.

"Thank you, Gus! I was scared nearly to death! It was wonderful the way you stalled along till those two rubes—" —she was already becoming familiar with carnival lingo—"got into a fight. Wasn't it lucky for me they did?" she added naively.

"Hell, kid!" Gus grinned at her and tilted his deby more rakishly over his left eye. "It was a frameup. Them's our boys. The guy that pretended to have his pocket picked will swear he made a mistake, and the worst old Sam can do is to have 'em fined for disorderly conduct. I'll square it with 'em and they'll be in Capital City by showtime tomorrow."

Pop Bybee chuckled richly, his bright pale-blue eyes gleaming in the lobster-red expanse of his old face. "Didn't I tell you, child, that the law couldn't touch you long as you stuck with the carnival? Dave tells me you're babbling about running away again because we're hitting the trail for your home town tonight. You stick, Sally. Pop Bybee and Gus and the rest of us will take care of you."

Sally's lips parted to tell him of Nita's threat to tip off the police if she did not relinquish her claim upon David's love and friendship, but before the first word tumbled out, the old inhibition against tattling, taught her in the stern school of life in an orphanage, restrained her.

"You're all so good to me," she choked, then turned abruptly away to where "Pitty Sing," the midget, was impatiently awaiting her human sedan-chair.

"I don't want to influence you unduly," the midget piped in her prim, high little voice," but Mr. Bybee and Gus are right. You are safer with the carnival than anywhere else in the state, and if you ran away I should be very sorry. I like you, Sally. I like you very much."

The dress tent was taken down by the "white hopes" almost before the women performers had had time to change from show clothes to nightgowns and kimonos. By 12 o'clock the lot was as bare of tents and booths and ferris wheels and motordromes and "whips" and merry-go-rounds as if those mechanical symbols of joy and fun had never existed.

And Sally lay on the lumpy, smelly mattress of her upper berth in the ancient Pullman car, waiting for her David's whistled signal—a bar of "Always." She was fully dressed.

Her heart sang the words—"I'll be loving you—always! Not for just an hour, not for just a day, not for just a year, but—always!"

She could have sent word to David by Gus or Pop Bybee that she had given up her frantic plan to run away; that he need not meet her in the darkness of the pulsing, hot June night. But—she had not—

It came then—clear and true, the whistled notes of the song which her heart sang to David—"I'll be loving you—always!"

She edged over to the side of the berth, the toe of her slipper groping until it found the edge of the lower berth in which the midget was sleeping. When she was safe in the aisle she cast a fearful glance up and down the car, and noted with uneasy surprise that Nita's berth, directly opposite the midget's was still unoccupied, the green curtains spread wide so that the grayish-white blur of the sheet and pillow was plainly discernible in the faint light from the one electric globe over the door.

But she had no time now to worry about Nita or Nita's threats. David was awaiting her—with the song still humming its sweet, extravagant promise in his heart. Or—was it? Had he chosen the song idly? Had he meant anything by that teasing kiss on the tip of her nose by his "Dear little Sally"?

"Being in love hurts something terrible," Sally shook her head at her own turbulent emotions, unconsciously employing the homely language of the orphanage. "But even if he doesn't love me I'm glad I love him. David, David!"

(To be Continued).

Sally hears the words she has been longing for from David's lips. In the next chapter.

U. S. SUPREME COURT MEETS FOR DECISIONS

Highest Tribunal Hopes to Clear Docket of Pending Cases at This Term of Court.

Washington, May 14.—The United States Supreme Court meets at noon today in the first of four final sessions of the term, to announce decisions which will virtually clear the docket of pending cases before adjournment June 4.

The court will meet every Monday hereafter. The rest of the time will be taken with conferences on decisions. Several important cases are among the forty to sixty cases now under advisement.

The long-delayed ruling on the legality of the New York Walker law, requiring secret organizations such as the Ku Klux Klan used to be, to file membership lists with the secretary of state, is expected to be handed down before adjournment.

The legality of wire-tapping by prohibition agents to get evidence against suspected Volstead Act violators is involved in another case which has been under advisement several months.

What is considered the most important case of the term, the Great Lakes water division case, also is under advisement, and it may be decided and announced if possible, in view of the developments of the Chicago waterworks project, which is held up pending a final ruling.

Among these rulings is expected one of the appeal of Wallace C. "Bob" Gaines, Seattle business man under sentence of death for the murder of his daughter, Sylvia. Gaines' appeal was presented three weeks ago, and the court's practice recently has been to decide all criminal cases as quickly as possible.

The court has concluded hearing of cases for the term, but petitions for review will be received up until May 28. Cases before the court so far this term number 950, but the figure is expected to pass 1,100,—which is about 150 less than last term,—by adjournment.

"Air Mail Week" Celebrates Tenth Anniversary of Service

Washington, May 14.—The United States today began celebrating "Air Mail Week" in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of using air service for the transportation of mail.

Postmaster General New, in designating the week, said air mail service had expanded from a "crawling babe" until now sixty-three cities are served by the modern type of pony express.

Air mail service was inaugurated between New York and Washington on May 15, 1918, but this route soon was abandoned because of the time lost between postoffices and flying fields.

"This experiment with planes and pilots borrowed from the War Department furnished the nucleus and the experience that later developed the trans-continental system and the widespread net work of contract lines today," New said.

27 Hours Between Coasts.

"Mail service between the coats was operated both by plane and train. This service developed until in August, 1923, the great trans-continental service went into effect, bringing New York and San Francisco only about twenty-seven hours away by mail.

"The next step was the establishment of an overnight service between New York and Chicago. Then when these two enterprises survived all tests and proved the feasibility of continuous transport by air over long distance without regard to darkness or ordinary adverse weather conditions, the government was ready to step out and let private initiative take over the new systems it had devoleped."

New pointed out there are now twenty-two routes in operation covering a total mileage of 9,916 miles. Every day mail pilots fly a distance of 22,110 miles carrying an average of nearly 5,700 pounds.

"Three other routes, already under contract, will add 1,705 miles to the system and four other routes, of 2,279 miles have been advertised," New said.

An Amazing Record

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is one of the largest units of one of the most important industries of the country—an industry that offers a remarkable record.

It is a matter of common knowledge that in the last ten years the price of gasoline has advanced less than that of any other commodity in general use, although the demand for it has increased far more than the demand for any of the others.

The supply of gasoline has been furnished when and where it was needed so faithfully that the fact is taken for granted.

This record of stability has been made by an industry in which costs of production have risen rapidly, in which the investment required and the risks incurred have been extraordinarily great.

Within the past dozen years more than $750,000,000 was expended in the U. S. in drilling dry holes and $500,000,000 more was put into wells that produced so little oil as to turn the investment into a heavy deficit. These statistics emphasize the achievement of the oil industry in furnishing a complete and continuous supply of petroleum products at comparatively stable prices.

The average cost of drilling a well in 1913 was $4,765. The average cost of a well last year was $18,725—or nearly 300 per cent more. Against this background of rapidly rising costs, consider the stability of the price of gasoline which over the first seven months of 1927 was only 12 per cent more than before the war!

This achievement of the oil industry has been made possible by increasing efficiency of operation. Science has been employed to improve methods, reduce waste and eliminate loss.

The cost of exploration has been reduced by means of the torsion balance, the seismograph and the magnetometer. Methods have been devised for increasing the recovery of gasoline from the crude oil and from natural gas.

The oil industry has made such progress in standardizing the equipment used in the production of oil that according to a government bureau it has advanced more in two years than any other industry in twenty years.

Back of the steady stream of gasoline that gives life to millions of motor vehicles is an amazing record of difficulties surmounted, of risks undertaken, of tremendous resources at work.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud to be one of the largest units in the oil industry—proud of the part it has played in the great task of supplying the nation with petroleum products.

Through the years it has carried on its work steadily and efficiently with benefit to all concerned—employes, stockholders and motorists of the Middle West. By faithful service, this Company has earned the confidence and friendly esteem which it enjoys today.

Remove Organs of Hanged Man, Charge

Brain, Heart and Other Parts Transferred to Patient in San Quentin Hospital.

San Francisco, May 14.—Milton U'Ren, attorney, today demanded an investigation by the State Prison Board of charges that the body of Clarence Kelly, San Francisco terror bandit, was mutilated after Kelly was hanged in San Quentin prison late Friday.

U'Ren, who represented Kelly's family in the fight to save him from the gallows, charged that an examination of the body after it had been relinquished by prison authorities showed the brain, heart and certain organs essential to a rejuvenation operation, had been removed.

The attorney said he was informed that the undertakers summoned to San Quentin to receive the body were kept waiting an hour and a half while an autopsy was performed.

It was during this time, U'Ren charged, that certain organs were removed and transferred to a patient in a San Francisco hospital.

U'Ren announced he would lay his claims before the state prison board at the earliest opportunity and that he would seek also an investigation by the State Medical Board.

James B. Holoman, warden at San Quentin, said an autopsy was performed on Kelly's body under the direction of Dr. L. Stanley, prison physician.

The warden refused to discuss U'Ren's charges beyond saying they would be investigated fully.

"Dr. Stanley informs me that autopsies usually are performed on all prisoners who die here," said the warden, "and no specific consent is ordinarily."

Road Machinery Is Shipped to Illinois

The T. J. Morris construction company of Oregon, which did the grading on highway No. 18 between Maryville and Ravenwood, and also graded the new track at the State Teachers College, shipped some material Saturday to Mackinaw, Ill. Included in the shipment were seven car loads of road construction machinery.

The road east of Maryville has been accepted by the State Highway Commission and has been taken over for maintenance. Traffic has been routed over the new road for some time.

It's a good thing Noah didn't have to get a bill past Congress and the President before he could build the ark.

Expect Fall of Tientsin.

British and French soldiers in defending the international settlement.

It was made clear, however, that the 3,800 United States marines at Tientstin will operate independently and will not become part of a unified command for the defense of the city. They are under strict instructions to confine their military activities solely to the protection of American lives and property, it was said.

Evacuation Last Resort.

As a last resort, in event foreign troops in Tientsin are unable to cope with anticipated disorders without taking the offensive against the Chinese or without endangering the lives of non combattant Chinese as well as foreigners, it was declared the 900 Americans would be evacuated to warships.

President Coolidge has not received the telegram, reported to have been sent by the Chinese Nationalists, asking the United States to state its attitude toward Japanese intervention in Shangtung. The position has been held here that this government cannot make known attitude until all facts relating to the Japanese move have become known.

Japanese Atrocities Charged.

A message from the Association of Universities and Colleges in Shanghai, forwarded by Frank W. Lee of Chicago and given Senator Borah today, charged Japanese atrocities at Tsinan, including cutting off of ears and noses and gouging out of eyes of Chinese.

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, May 14.—Breaking late in the day, after attempts of shorts to cover had sent prices above Saturday's close, wheat closed with fractional losses on the board of trade today.

Corn broke with wheat early in the day and held low with reports of favorable planting weather. Oats also dropped with wheat and provisions were sharply lower.

Closing prices:

Wheat off ⅛c to 1⅜c; May losing the most; corn off 2½c to 2⅝c and oats down 1⅝c to 3½c.

The market was nervous throughout the day with rapid price changes. Following an opening upturn there was a wave of selling but later shorts attempting to cover found offerings light and the market went higher in spite of reports of good rains in Kansas and Nebraska and moisture in the Northwest. Export business of about 500,000 bushels, mostly Manitobas and Durum was reported. The cash market was unchanged to ½ cent down with receipts of 66 cars.

Corn ranged about two cents and showed little rallying power. The tone was heavy on the dips. Planting has been nearly completed and with good rains prospects are for a good crop. The cash market dropped 1 to 2 cents with receipts of 143 cars.

Oats showed more strength than other grains due to unfavorable crop news. Rain is needed. The cash market was ½ cent higher with 167 cars received.

FIVE TEAMS TIE FOR LEAD

Burlington Wins a Close Game Here —Barnard, Quitman and Hopkins Other Winners.

The Nodaway county baseball league is all in a muddle today as a result of yesterday's games. Barnard, Bolckow, Hopkins, Quitman and Clearmont all are tied for leadership with two games won and one lost. Bolckow and Clearmont were dragged from undisputed league leadership when they were defeated, Hopkins won from Guilford and Burlington Junction bettered its standing by defeating Maryville.

Barnard played havoc at Bolckow, scoring eleven runs on twenty hits and blanking Bolckow. The only safety was made by the first man up for Bolckow; he hit the first ball delivered. Barnard was accredited with two errors and Bolckow four. Batteries were Hubbell, Williams and Nedro for Barnard, and Wantler, Duke and Davison for Bolckow.

Clearmont and Quitman played a close game at Quitman, Quitman winning 4 to 3. The winning team got eleven hits and made six errors while Clearmont got six hits and committed four errors. Norris, pitching for Clearmont, got eight strike-outs. Hagey caught for Clearmont. Inman, Quitman hurler, fanned six Clearmont batters. Tommy Tobin caught for Quitman. Stevens of Quitman got a home run in the fourth inning. A good crowd watched the teams play their games.

Guilford lost to Hopkins, 1 to 9, on Hopkins territory. Thorburn held Guilford to five hits. Henning caught for Hopkins, and the team made two errors. The Guilford battery was Ham, Brittain and Schieber. No errors were credited to Guilford. The Hopkins players found the offerings of Ham and Brittain for eleven hits.

Burlington Wins Here.

Maryville and Burlington Junction went into a tie for sixth and seventh places in the Nodaway county league as a result of Burlington's 5 to 3 victory over Maryville on the old fair grounds here yesterday. Two home runs featured the game. Gales, Conception College lad, who pitched a no hit game last year, was on the mound for Burlington, and he clouted a four-base hit in the fourth inning to win his own game, bringing in Ed Tobin before him.

Augustine, playing short for Maryville, also hit a home run.

Six State Teachers College men were playing on the two teams yesterday. Hedges was at second base, Russell in left, and Iba in center field for Burlington, and Augustine took short stop, Burks first base and Davison center field for Maryville.

Buhler and Gales were pitching pretty ball yesterday, each getting thirteen strikeouts, but Buhler was unfortunate when Maryville let in two runs on overthrows.

Gales started like a whirlwind, retiring the first three Maryville men by the strikeout route.

Burlington scored one run in the first inning, three in the fourth and one in the eighth. Maryville did not score until the sixth, when one run was chalked up, and two in the eighth.

Burlington's big inning was the fourth. Ed Tobin beat out a hot line drive to Scott. Iba got to first and Tobin scored when Maryville tried to trap him at third. Gale's homer than brought in Iba.

One Caught at Plate.

Maryville collected two hits and two runs in the eighth. Buhler was out at first, Augustine got a home run, Arthur went to first on an error by Buckridge and came in when Laughlin slammed a two bagger. Laughlin was caught trying to score, and Burks struck out.

Hagen Loses Match With French Golfer

St. Cloud, France, May 14.—Walter Hagen's golf invasion of Europe was marked with another defeat today, the winner of the British open championship having lost a 36-hole match yesterday to Aubrey Boomer, St. Cloud professional, 3 up and 2 to play.

The largest gallery ever to see a golf match in France, 3,000, followed the two. Hagen's unfamiliarity with the difficult course contributed to his down fall, but the principal reason he lost was because his putter failed him at critical moments.

Hagen's next match will be at Berlin where he meets Percy Alliss, the British professional.

Goes Far to Wed

NEA San Francisco Bureau

Thelma Clumeck met Bert W. Levitt, attorney in San Francisco, and they decided to wed. First, however, Miss Clumeck wanted to visit her parents in Singapore. Returning from Singapore, after a 10,000-mile trip, she discovered she had to go a few thousand miles farther to be married since the British quota was filled and her entry was denied. A marriage in Canada was planned, so Miss Clumeck can return to the United States as the wife of an American citizen.

SIDESTEP ON CHINESE WAR

METHODISTS REFER A RESOLUTION TO COMMITTEE.

PROHIBITION UP TODAY

Other Important Questions to Be Submitted to General Conference at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—The Methodist Episcopal conference, in session here, today declined an opportunity to become directly embroiled in the Chinese-Japanese crisis. A resolution asking President Coolidge to see his power to avert a conflict between China and Japan was referred to a committee.

Dr. R. Y. Lo of Shanghai, editor of the Chinese Christian Advocate, introduced the resolution and warned that a conflict between Japan and China might lead to another war.

After enjoying a virtual recess over the week-end, during which the Men's Council was in session, delegates attending the general conference opened today the third week of the conference with important legislation and reports confronting them.

Prohibition Report Today.

The report of the committee on temperance, prohibition and public morals was expected to be presented to the conference today. Much of the report of the committee deals with the prohibition question, charging that one of the moves to nullify the Eighteenth Amendment is the promoting of government officers opposed to the dry laws. A union of church forces to fight "nullification candidates" is proposed.

Activities of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Anti-Saloon League, the World League Against Alcoholism and the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist church to make this an alcohol-free civilization are commended in the report.

What will be done concerning the major political question of the conference—length of term of bishops—may precipitate fights on the conference floor this week. A group led by Andrew W. Shamel, of Pasadena, is expected to fight for the limiting of the terms of bishops to eight years instead of life terms.

Two days of addresses by world famous speakers and discussion of religious questions ended for more than 4,000 men last night attending the men's council of the church.
